In May 2018, Michigan's children lost a life-long advocate in the passing of State Superintendent Brian Whiston.

Whiston served as State Superintendent from his appointment in July 2015, and Superintendent of Dearborn (MI) Public Schools – the state's third largest school district – from 2008 to 2015. Prior to that, he served 10 years as Director of Government and Community Services for the Oakland County ISD, Mr. Whiston consistently demonstrated his ability to work with state government to bring financial resources to schools, lead his department to improved student achievement, and help make all schools in the county successful. He also served as a local school board member for 17 years and held the position of President-Elect of the Michigan Parent Teacher Student Association (PTSA)—a position he had to relinquish to serve more students as Superintendent. He was known for his passion, advocacy, and desire for quality education for all children, regardless of zip code. In one of his last acts, he ensured the parent voice was included in his quest to make Michigan a top education state.

This award has been established to honor Brian and his work by recognizing an individual who most exemplifies the qualities that made him a true advocate for all children. The Brian Whiston Advocate of the Year award will be presented to an individual PTA member, who through their leadership and advocacy efforts, affected federal, state, or local policy priorities within Michigan PTA's annual public policy agenda, continuing the work as Brian challenged us to do in his farewell to the Association during our Centennial. Winners will be selected by the VP of Children's Advocacy in conjunction with the President. If either entity is a nominee, the award will be decided by a committee from another state.
